

We have been asked many times to comment on various curricula or recommend a curriculum. You know your child better than anyone else ever could, so we would never presume to advise you on such an important matter as a curriculum that will suit your child's needs.

However, we do know that it would help to narrow down your choices a bit! In that case, we recommend various homeschool curriculum review web sites. Check out the reviews on these sites to help you make informed choices for your family.

HomeschoolReviews.com

The purpose of this site is to provide a community where homeschoolers can read reviews and discuss curriculum and other issues that relate to homeschooling. All of the content of this site is created by homeschooling parents.

CathyDuffyReviews.com

Since 1984, we have provided resources for the homeschooling community, like the well-known Christian Home Educators' Curriculum Manuals by Cathy Duffy, HotHouse Transplants, and the latest title, 100 Top Picks for Homeschool Curriculum.

. Our site also features articles and reviews of other books Cathy believes are important for those interested in homeschooling, education, and related political and spiritual issues.

HomeschoolingTogether.com

Maintained by a homeschooling family in Charlotte, North Carolina, this site features reviews by homeschoolers around the country.

Home School Advisor

This site was created to give you suggestions for good homeschooling courses for each grade level. Do you need advice about choosing homeschool curriculum? Send us an email telling us about your goals and we will do our best to point you in the right direction.

If you know a web site that features curriculum reviews, please email us and we will add it to this list.
